Journal of Earth and Ocean Science (JEOS)

CALL FOR PAPERS

Volume-2, Issue-1

The Journal of Earth and Ocean Science (JEOS) invites submission for its upcoming issue. JEOS is a peer-reviewed, open-access journal that publishes high-quality, original research articles, reviews, and case studies in the broad areas of Earth and Ocean sciences. We aim to advance the understanding of natural systems, environmental processes, and the dynamic interactions between the earth and its oceans.

Topics of Interest

We welcome interdisciplinary and focused contributions that cover, but are not limited to, the following topics:

- Oceanography: Physical, chemical, biological, and geological oceanography; ocean circulation and dynamics.
- Geology and Geophysics: Tectonics, seismology, mineralogy, sedimentology, petrology and geochemistry.
- Climatology and Atmospheric Science: Climate change, meteorology, and atmospheric processes influencing earth and ocean systems.
- Marine and Coastal Ecosystems: Biodiversity, marine ecology, conservation, and sustainable resource management.
- Biological Sciences: Marine bioresources, marine science, fisheries & aquaculture, marine biotechnology.
- Environmental Science: Pollution, environmental change, and restoration efforts in marine and coastal ecosystems.
- Paleontology and Earth History: Fossils, stratigraphy, and earth's evolutionary past.
- Hydrology and Water Resources: Groundwater systems, watershed hydrology, and hydrological modeling.
- Remote Sensing and GIS: Applications in earth and ocean sciences for monitoring environmental processes and change.
- Natural Hazards and Risk Management: Earthquake, tsunami, coastal erosion, and other environmental hazards.

Submission Guidelines

All submissions must be original work, not published elsewhere or under consideration for publication. Manuscripts should be prepared according to JEOS guidelines, which can be found on our journal website:
